Jenesse Center and Levitt & Quinn Partner for South Los Angeles Family Law Clinic

LOS ANGELES, October 13, 2016—On October 25, 2016, Levitt & Quinn Family Law Center will join with Jenesse Center, Inc. at Jenesse’s South Los Angeles location to hold the first ever “Unite for Families” Family Law Legal Project. Trained family law professionals will meet one-on-one with participants to educate families about their rights and responsibilities, as well as identify the steps necessary to move their family law cases forward. These quarterly clinics will provide free private consultations for participants.

Family law cases are some of the most difficult for low-income families to resolve. Lack of resolution leaves families struggling with issues that can affect the emotional, physical and financial well-being of children and families for years to come. Via this collaboration, both Levitt & Quinn and Jenesse Center strive to give low-income families in South Los Angeles and beyond access to justice. “It’s fitting that Levitt & Quinn and Jenesse Center came together to create this new clinic. Both organizations were founded in 1981 by women who saw a community need, and without any obligation to do so, volunteered to create new nonprofit organizations to address those needs,” said Levitt & Quinn Executive Director Ana M. Storey.
